COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

During Wednesday and Thursday of this week I will be attending the meeting of the Maine Municipal Association at Rockland. This is an association of cities and towns of which this town is a member. Numerous services are provided, as follows: a monthly magazine, information service on municipal problems, legal consultation service consisting of written advisory legal opinions on general municipal problems, weekly Legislative Bulletins while the legislature is in session, several manuals pertaining to municipal subjects. Recently a new member has been added to the staff to fill the position of field representative. He will travel throughout the state making contacts with various municipal officials. A great deal is offered by the association for the small amount of dues required to be a member.

Tarring will start next week. A tank car has been ordered for delivery on Monday. Current plans call for about 30,000 gallons, part of which will be for new work, and the remainder for seal and mulch on existing tar roads and streets.

On Monday of this week several gravel roads were treated with about 19 tons of calcium chloride. This material stabilizes the surface preventing dust and keeps the traveled surface in a much smoother condition.

Sincerely yours,
Harold L. Bean

The MPC will meet at Mrs. Blanche Bennett's Monday evening.

Addison C. Saunders, Susan and Stephen spent the week end at Harrington Lake.

The annual spraying for insect control in the village area was done Wednesday morning.

VAN CO. TELEPHONES ALL DIAL OPERATED SINCE THIS MORNING

The cut-over to the dial system of the Van Tel. & Tel. Co. was completed this Thursday morning. This change involves some 650 telephones of the Vandye exchange, which is located at the Bethel office. Exchanges Terrace at West Bethel and Tremont at Locke Mills were cut over about two years ago.

It is expected that some confusion will be created by the method of listing in the current telephone directories, due to the fact that the older dial exchanges of the Van company are not listed under Bethel as formerly. The Terrace exchange which serves West Bethel, Northwest Bethel, Gilead and Mason, is under the heading of West Bethel near the back of the book. The Tremont numbers, which include Locke Mills, Greenwood Center, and some of East and South Bethel, are found under Locke Mills.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY TO HOLD FOOD SALE

The Bethel Auxiliary of the Rumford Community Hospital held its monthly meeting June 3 at the home of Mrs. Stanley Davis with Mrs. Kimball Ames assisting. There were 13 members present. Mr. Lamb returned Monday for more tests and consultations.

A party was held in honor of the winning softball team Friday night, May 31. The winning girls' team and the winning boys' team had a short play-off at this party. There was dancing and refreshments after the game. Lorenda Freeman and Richard York were captains of these two teams.

In order to have the party given in their honor the teams had to win over three other teams. The regular games were played after school refereed by Mr. Helmo who also organized the party.

Our graduation exercises are well underway. Reporters, Mary E. Willard and Linda R. Brown.

On Friday, June 7, the eighth grade class is taking a class trip. We will arrive at Bath, Maine, around 10:30 a. m. Then enjoying various recreations until our sea shore dinner is prepared. After dinner we will visit a Naval Air Base in Brunswick.

On our class trip, Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Hutchins, Mrs. Lurvey and Mr. Helmo will assist us as chaperones.

MISS SHIRLEY BARTLETT
WRITES FROM ENGLAND

The following letter has been received from Miss Shirley Bartlett of East Bethel, Oxford County's International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to England.

May 8, 1957

Dear Friends:

Have you ever felt you've come home to a place that really isn't home? As I look now, from my train window, taking me to a new side of England, I see reflected in the rolling hills, sectioned like a crazy work quilt by stone fences and hawthorn hedges, a peacefulness attained through centuries of famous battles, hard times, and two unforgettable wars.

To England, farming is probably the most serious business in the world. There is not room for experimentation or crops that fail, for in order to feed her population, every inch of soil must be under the plow and production...

As I mentioned before, there is great variety in each county. In these letters, I'd like to be a little more specific than I have been up to now, to give you my impression of England as I travel from lowlands to high.

When we arrived in London, we were put into three groups of two, each group going to different parts of Great Britain and eventually making our way to every section.

My companion, Jo Ann Hamill, from Colorado, and I were assigned to County Yorkshire, the biggest county and divided into three ridings, or sections. We were to go to the East Riding of Yorkshire to homes only six miles from the North Sea. Our families were about four miles apart.

We were met in Hull, Yorkshire's industrial city, by the County Organizer, who is equivalent to our County 4-H Agent, and taken in her May, left-sided auto, at great speed through Yorkshire Country, up and down hills, through villages, and on until we turned off the main road, tore up the mile of driveway, past startled sheep, to a group of red brick farm buildings. This was my home for ten days—a newly-preserved farmhouse with beamed ceilings, the fireplaces, a picture book kitchen, and the utmost in modern design. My new "mother" and "Dad", I found, were little older than myself, newly married, and working hard to establish their lives as farmers. Ian and Audrey Forbes lived on a 400-acre rented farm, employed six men, and had a stock of 300 Border Leicester sheep, 50 Ayrshire and Holstein cows, five large Whites, and 1500 Sussex/Rhode Island bred breeding hens—and two sheep dogs.

Audrey took sole responsibility of the poultry, from incubating the eggs to feeding the pullets. Ian and the hired men took care of the rest of the farm management, including the rigid four-crop rotation plan of oats, winter wheat, roots, and two years hay.

Perhaps you are puzzled about their farm being rented in England, for thousands of years, land has been owned by title owners, lords and ladies, whose property has been passed down through generations to the beginning, these title owners employed their own gardeners, but in recent years, have found this too expensive so have rented huge areas to aspirant farmers at a minimum cost, just to make sure that valuable land is kept up. So much of the land is owned in this manner that it is almost impossible to buy acreage, so few farmers own their own land. Under this system, the farmer uses the capital to stock his farm with which he would ordinarily have to buy it. He pays no taxes; he has no mortgage. Everything he makes can be put back into the farm and equipment, and any improvements made on his buildings are deductible if he can show he leaves. There is much to be said for this method!

When I first arrived at High Catthorpe, the proper name for their farm, my host asked me what I usually ate for breakfast. Thinking of my rushed breakfasts at the hospital, I said, "Oh, just a glass of juice and coffee." The next morning, Audrey and I opened up and fed the 1,000 pullets on far yonder hill, while Ian was milking, and when at 8:30 we sat down to breakfast of juice, fried tomatoes, eggs, and bread, toast and coffee, I just knew I was trapped! Now we laughed over that one!

So many times I looked across a Yorkshire field or down a road and saw a striking similarity between Maine and England. Everywhere I saw the same closeness, typical in our New England countryside, and when I show my slides, someone is sure they're viewing English country. Our history in New England, naturally, dates back to English tradition. How proud the people are of copper tea kettles and blue willowware just as we are at home!

The housewife in Yorkshire calls herself extremely house proud, and I'm sure she is. No one ever finds your feet never had it so good if they're in a pair of Dunham Tyroleans. Oxfords—Six Inch Nine Inch and—Lower Prices As Usual. Howe's-Hanover.

Yorkshire home in an upland. There is no central heat, so most rooms have fireplaces with big hearth rugs in front. This is the central attraction in a room and chairs and divans snuggle up close as nightfall approaches. Ten P.M. supper is had around the fire; a fire, first paper, then wood, then coal, then settle back with a good cup of tea.

The County of Yorkshire raises the most sheep in England. They are Border Leicesters, crossed with Suffolk, black-faced and meaty. It was a sight to behold to see the Forster sheep dog manage a flock of 300. With all their sheep, the Yorkshire people do a tremendous woolen business and most of the finest wool comes from that area. Next to wool in fame comes Yorkshire food. It is an established fact that no other county takes like Yorkshire. Thursday is baking day and there before your eyes appears the biggest variety of pastry imaginable in every size, shape, and color, and it appears before you until it is eaten up.

Fishing villages dot the seaboard along the Yorkshire coast and quietly carry on the business at the ancient docks, of mending nets and bringing in boatloads of fish. These are the villages whose streets are cobblestone and narrow; whose houses are joined together and stacked up high, so that neighbors, leaning out of their upper windows, could easily exchange a cup of tea. There is a town called York, surrounded by stone wall built in the year 800. Its minster is laid upon a previous Norman and then a Roman cathedral. Every town has Market Day when wares are sold from sidewalk booths. Every town has Woolworth's, too! So there you have the very old along with the new.

The people in Yorkshire are called by their southern neighbors, forward and extremely friendly people, and so I found them. They are outgoing and hospitable and very down-to-earth. Their dialect is peculiar to their county and is known as the Yorkshire dialect. Everyone is "duck" to them, as we would say "dear."

Well, our train is slowing down; we're about to become members of another family. Good bye for now.

MILITARY TEAMWORK BEST

Our first Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal, said: "Whether it be in business, government, or military operations, I mistrust the principle of relying on a single genius to make all basic decisions."

The assertion that a single chief of staff system is efficient, economical and desirable from a national standpoint is not supported by history, fact, or experience. The concept has fatal defects from military, political and economic standpoints.

Our Joint Chiefs of Staff organization has in practice demonstrated the genius of the American people for democracy. This system has solved the problem which has long plagued democratic republics, the difficulty of being militarily strong without becoming militaristic. Other advantages of this system are many and certain.

It has demonstrated that where speed of decision is required, it can meet the test.

It assures our nation that vital decisions are arrived at after a sound deliberative process. Our national survival is based not upon the whim of an individual, but upon the decisions of the best military minds our nation has available.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff organization assures the proper development and employment of our

"PUBLIC DEBT IS NOT LIKE PRIVATE DEBT"

Most of us know that the federal debt is about $275 billion. But few have any concept of what that means. It's just a figure, almost beyond human comprehension.

Senator Byrd, writing in National Review, gives a vivid picture of the debt. That $275 billion he says "is the equivalent of the assessed value of all the land, buildings, mines, machinery, factories, livestock, everything of tangible value in the United States."

Then he goes on to say something that must be far better understood than it is now if the country, as we know it, is to survive. "Public debt is not like private debt. If private debt is not paid off it can be ended by bankruptcy proceedings, and may be not many people are hurt. If public debt is not paid off, paid off with taxes, the result is disastrous inflation or repudiation. Either would destroy our form of government."

The proposed new budget is the largest to our peacetime history. According to the estimates, there will be a small surplus if the budget is approved. But it is evident that even a very moderate change in the business boom with the fact that would have no tax effect, would eliminate such a surplus and put a deficit in the place.

Senator Byrd believes the debt can be cut by more than $50 billion without harm to our vital federal function. If we

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Mrs. John Harris, Lincoln Park, Michigan: I remember the old "Town Square" in a southern Iowa town where the stores went completely around the four sides. In the center was the park, enclosed with a hitch rack, we called it. It was a heavy chain running from post to post where the horses were tied.

At one side was the Town Pump where the tired folk went to quench their thirst; where the children washed their faces, flushed from the summer heat; their dirty hands and their dusty feet.

Nearby was the white bandstand, with its gingerbread trimmings. Once a week band concerts were given and sometimes the church women would have an ice cream supper. Sometimes it would be held on Saturday nights when the country folk came in to bring their produce, do their shopping and then would congregate with the town folk in the park for a good visit.

The young folks walked arm in arm around the square, munching on peanuts and popcorn bought from the friendly old vendor on the corner. The children played tag and leap frog, stopping once in a while to get a dish of ice cream and good home made cake.

About nine o'clock the farm folks would begin their journey home, in all manner of conveyances, buggies, wagons, horseback and some afoot.

Once in a while on the 4th of July or Labor Day, we really celebrated. The bandstand and all other stands decorated with red, white and blue bunting. The band played martial music and the speakers held forth for hours.

We thought, between the park and the stores would be a Merry-Go-Round, a Ferris Wheel and once there was a dog show. If we had twenty-five cents to spend for pink lemonade and popcorn, we were in seventh heaven.

not do that now, with the economy running at peak speed, when can we?

Draper Falls, Pa., News-Tribune: "The premier of Hungary was recently given a hero's welcome in Moscow. Most puppeteers are equally careful in how they handle their puppets."
